Detailed Syllabus Information

Course Subtitle	Globalization Studies
Language of the Course	English
Type of Class	Seminar Subject
Course Objective	Globalization is a pervasive phenomenon in today's world, impacting most aspects of our lives as individuals as well as communities. In this course, we will explore the economic, political, and cultural characteristics of globalization. In the first half of the course, we will review the basic foundations of the global economy--such as trade and finances--and consider the way they affect international relations and development. We will also look into the cultural aspects of globalization. In the second half of the course, we will switch our focus to the political dimension of globalization, including global governance and transnational threats.
Learning Goals	(1) Knowledge: After taking this course, students will be able to describe the main principles and dimensions of globalization. (2) Skills: After taking this course, students will be able to identify the globalizing forces that affect local and national conditions around them.
