Course Objectives / 授業の目的と概要	Are we all becoming Americans as a result of globalization? Or are we keeping our local identities and values? Are Japanese giving up their preference for harmony, just because they are drinking Coca-Cola and eat at McDonald's? The topic of this course is an introduction and critical analysis of different approaches to investigate cultural differences between social groups. We mainly focus on evaluating the relevance of several cultural dimensions and on how those relevant dimensions could be investigated empirically. We discuss dominant management (e.g. Hofstede), psychological (e.g. Triandis), and sociological/ anthropological approaches (e.g. Trommsdorff). This is an interactive lecture-type course. Students are required to complete homework assignments prior to class and to contribute frequently to class discussions.
Learning Goals / 学習目標	1	At the end of this course, students should be able to: (i) understand the major comparative approaches to study culture, (ii) identify important cultural aspects which vary between cultures, and (iii) formulate a reliable and valid empirical research project.
