Additional Information on Grading	Participation (30%) Active participation is essential in this discussion-focused course. Students are expected to come prepared, contribute to discussions, and engage respectfully with peers. Weekly Reading Summaries (30%) Students will explain the readings in English at the beginning of each class before discussion. These will also be submitted on CLE. Final Project (40%) To be discussed in class.
Reasonable Accommodation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> If you need reasonable accommodation to participate in this class due to disability (including intractable disease and chronic condition), please contact the office for students with disabilities (e.g., Educational Affairs Section, Academic Affairs Section, Student Affairs Section) at your school/faculty or graduate school, or the Disability Advisory and Support Service Office of the Health and Counseling Center. For more information, please visit the following website or contact the Disability Advisory and Support Service Office of the Health and Counseling Center. Special Note	Prior knowledge of Japanese language at advanced level is required to attend classes. A screening will be performed on students to assess students' pre-requisites and requirements. The classes will consist of a mix seminar, practical activities, audio-visual presentations, peer reviews and group discussions. Reading materials will be agreed with other instructors in order to provide students with learning basics to engage with original Japanese texts reading. The course is organised to provide maximum hands-on practice for students. Note: The syllabus is flexible and may be adjusted based on students' abilities. If students are interested in tackling more challenging texts than those initially provided and exhibit a positive attitude toward learning, changes to the syllabus are possible. This will be discussed in the first class. Students are welcome to suggest readings that align with their specific research interests, as long as they remain within the social sciences field.
