 Even if this is not the case, we may hold classes using the media.

Detailed Syllabus Information

Course Subtitle	Japan:Society and Ideology
Language of the Course	English
Learning Methods
Course Objectives	Studewnnts shall learn relationship between modern Japanese social structure and the modern Japanese ideology, which determines the life of ordinary democratic minded people. This lecture is, in other words, designed for those who wish to learn how Japanese people accommodate other members of society and present social structures. Ideology has tended to be thought as a political matter. However, from a social psychological point of view, we need to think about what determines our everyday lives.
Learning Goals	1	Through detailed examinations of Japanese history, culture, religion, language, media and up-to-date social issues, students will formulate ideas on how 'ideology' (such as Emperorship) has worked to support modern 'democracy' (such as Symbol Emperor System and Pacifism).
	2	Those who wish to discuss 'democracy', 'conservatism', 'egalitarianism', 'liberalism', 'freedom', 'Constitutional monarchy' and modern Japanese history (mainly post-war period) are all welcome.
	3	At the end, students are able to demonstraite critical understanding about iideology, from the view points of Japan as well as students' own
Requirements, Prerequisites
Attendance and Student Conduct Policy	Students who are forced to stay outside Osaka University campus may access the lecture virtually. Those who stay Osaka are expected to come to the classroom.
